RE: TE Connectivity's Operations & Communications

Dear Valued TE Connectivity Suppliers,

TE Connectivity's Operations During the Pandemic

TE Connectivity and its affiliated companies (TE) are aware of the recent and ongoing governmental declarations restricting movement and business operations to help fight the Covid-19 pandemic. TE serves many diverse industries and customers – with some idling or slowing down in response to government directives and the pandemic's impact, with others accelerating to help efforts to fight the pandemic. Because TE manufactures and contributes products to essential and/or life-saving businesses, it is TE's intention and obligation to continue to operate during this event to the extent we are able within legal limits. It is in this challenging context that we need to work together in the weeks and months to come.

Guidance to Suppliers

We ask that you closely follow all government directives for movement, operation and shipping. We also ask that you closely monitor all communications from TE and stay in close contact with your TE buyer(s) – especially if you support more than one TE business unit or site. Again, due to the complexities presented by Covid-19, TE's operations may either be slowing down or accelerating based on a given customer/industry need or government directive. Accordingly, you may receive (or have already received) specific, additional industry specific communications from TE, such as essential-business communications related to specific governmental mandates on the need to continue operation (on the one hand), and/or requests to vary or decrease production (on the other). We ask that you read each communication closely and take any necessary action.

If you have any questions relating to your near and mid-term orders with TE, please reach out to your TE supply chain point(s) of contact. Thank you for your continued support and assistance during this critical time.

Regards,
